

Materialised thoughts sculptors with architectural roots

Posted on 15 July, 2014 by CH

9

Arturo Berned born in Madrid in 1966 studied in London Turin and oxford after being granted several scholarships, these cities later were to have an influence on his creative process. Arturo as an architect has carried out his professional work mainly in Mexico, England, Italy and Spain, some of his great projects that he worked on are: the T4 Terminal at Barajas, Real Madrid's Sport City and the extension to the Santiago Bernabeu stadium. But today our interest is on his other great professional skill sculpture. In the early 90's during his stay in Mexico Arturo set out on his path in the world of sculpture. This was a vocation that at first was a way to put into practice projects through which he could materialize his thoughts, and which little by little grew in importance in the way they were expressed. Since 2003 up until now he has dedicated himself to his passion of sculpture in which he has excelled. So we leave you with these incredible interpretations of his work for which he has won fame and many prizes. We hope you enjoy them as much as we have.

